FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Compunetix to Play in the Sandbox at the TeleSpan Future of Conferencing Workshop

Monroeville, Pa., March 4, 2013 – Compunetix, Inc. the leading solutions provider of collaboration technology, will be a sponsor and participant at Elliot Gold's upcoming TeleSpan Future of Conferencing Workshop. The eighth annual event will be held from March 7 – 8 in Las Vegas, Nevada. Elliot, along with Compunetix Senior Vice President and Division Manager Jerry Pompa and many other industry luminaries, will be on hand to focus on the proliferation of unified collaboration tools and options flooding the market and discuss how service providers can profit in today's environment. Jerry will participate in an industry panel entitled "How do we CSPs survive in the Future of Conferencing?" discussing the options to partner, collaborate, or facilitate and further debating the question "Is the future here already?"

As a sponsor, Compunetix will also be participating in the Technology Sandbox demo area, providing attendees with a glimpse at the newest mobile version of CONTEX Presenter™, a premier offering for data conferencing, as well as the new ConferenceManager™ and EVERGREEN™ integrated voice and video solutions. A reception hosted by Compunetix for all attendees will take place on the evening of March 7 as an opportunity for further networking and brainstorming. To register for the event, visit <http://www.telespan.com/workshop/index.html>.

"We're looking forward to really spurring some controversial conversations about the nature and the future of how businesses communicate," notes Elliot Gold, President of TeleSpan Publishing Corporation. "Our focus will be on mobility and driving profitability, and Compunetix has always been a front runner in those areas."

"Our R&D is primarily focused to benefit the collaboration service providers' business proposition. Elliot's leadership and the TeleSpan Future of Conferencing event puts us one-on-one with shaping what's to come," states Jerry Pompa, Senior Vice President and Division Manager at Compunetix.
